

Peer Review 1 – McCullough

Quality of Work: 3 Points

It is hard to give this an actual score at this point because you are just in the beginning stage of dealing with data and deciding where to go from here; however, you do have it very clear what the main things that you will be going over in the outline. The README, data, outline, and R files all are organized in a way that makes sense of what you have accomplished and what your next steps will be.

Intellectual Merit: 3 Points

This is a really good topic to work with because you have an easy main goal of researching to find what draft picks are the most valuable, but you also have an endless number of questions that you can ask using your data. This should allow you to be able to keep working while hitting many different checkpoints in your research, so it won't be something that you will run out of things to do or not have enough time to accomplish anything. I will say the one negative to working on sports related things is there are many variables that you can't quantify, but there still should be enough data for you to find good insight with.

Video: 3 Points

Your video was a great overview of everything that you have going on and there wasn't anything that I would say you could have improved on.

Overall, this looks to be a great starting point for your capstone.